With the main character being ten years old, I was expecting it to be more of a middle-grade fantasy. It's not, at all. It's an incredible story. I simply fell in love with these characters and this story its made my favourites list!Biographie de l'auteurIve been inventing stories as far back as I can remember (mostly to keep me out of trouble), but began writing seriously after finishing an English studies BA as a mature student. My writing is influenced by so many things: a love of reading all genres; films; music; raising my two daughters; hill walking; and much, much more. I tend to take all I know, throw it into a setting and see what comes out. My first four books were all fantasy, but then a new story entered my mind that insisted on being a psychological thriller. Just like raising children, a story insists on being what it was always meant to be: Characters will behave as they want, and plots will demand to go in a certain direction. All I do as an author is transfer their antics into writing and then release them into the world to see what readers make of them. I have more fantasy tales to tell and more thrillers too. I cant promise all readers that they will like my stories, but I can promise one thing: I will never publish anything that I havent thoroughly enjoyed myself.
